

Table of contents

1 CONNECTING TO GLOBAL BRAIN CIRCULATION	9
1.1 Key questions, structure and research approach	11
1.2 Challenges for the welfare state	22
1.3 Fuelling innovation systems through brain circulation	28
1.4 Connecting regional innovation environments with the global pool of experts	32
2 FINLAND IN THE GLOBAL FIELD – IRELAND AND DENMARK AS POINTS OF COMPARISON	37
2.1 Immigration histories	37
2.2 Need for foreign talent and labour	42
2.3 Labour immigration policy	48
3 FROM AN INTERNATIONAL TO A GLOBAL ECONOMY	53
3.1 Corporations as creators of a new social order	54
3.2 Innovation as the engine for labour market development	56
3.3 Corporations and social responsibility	59
4 INSTITUTIONALISING THE GLOBAL ECONOMY	64
4.1 Building global structures	64
4.2 Globalisation of ownership and production	67
4.3 Creating a global labour market	70
4.4 Networking “corporate states”	74
5 RESHAPING NATIONAL BOUNDARIES	78
5.1 EU as shaper of national immigration policies	79
5.2 Expanding labour markets, the EU and immigration policy	83
5.3 Re-defining citizens and aliens	89
5.4 From gatekeeper to promoter	95
6 OPENING THE DOORS TO SKILLED WORKERS WILL ANYONE COME?	101
6.1 Respected corporations and star scientists connecting talent	103
6.2 The middle class on the global field of choices?	110
6.3 Permits, visas and official gatekeepers	121
7 CREATIVITY, CULTURAL COMPETENCE AND CAREERS IN JOB MARKETS	128
7.1. Toward global creativity	128
7.2 Equality in professional and career opportunities	137

8 THE DILEMMA OF THE WELFARE STATE	144
8.1 The welfare state in shaping the standard of living	146
8.2 What the welfare state takes: taxation and wages	148
8.3 What the welfare state gives: social harmony	162
 9 NEW ELEMENTS OF COMPETITIVENESS – LIVING ENVIRONMENT	 171
9.1 Living environment	173
9.2 Increasingly international urban areas	177
9.3 ‘Lattetowns’ and local culture	179
 10 FROM NATIONAL FORTRESS TO GLOBAL NETWORKS	 186
10.1 Elements of attraction	189
10.2 Policies for creative innovation environments in the global age	195
 REFERENCES	 202
APPENDICES	224