Contents

List of Illustrations vii
Series Editors' Preface xviii
Acknowledgements xix

Introduction – ‘The Beginnings’ 1

Part I Mapping Germany, 1860–1914 9
1 From Geographical Expression to German Empire 11
2 ‘North Sea’ or ‘German Ocean’? Britain and Germany in the Wider World 21
3 A ‘Pink Link’ – Race, Religion and the Anglo-German Cartographic Freemasonry 27
4 War and the Severing of the ‘Pink Link’ 37

Part II Travelling to Germany, 1860–1914: A Guidebook 43
5 Britain and Baedeker’s Germany 45
6 The Rhine, the Spas, and Beyond; in War and Peace 53
7 Business as Usual: The 1880s and 1890s 62
8 The Last of the Summer Holidays – Twentieth Century Travel 72

Part III Models and Monsters: English Literature and the Idea of Germany 83
9 Learned, Indefatigable, Deep-Thinking Germany 85
10 The German Invasion of Britain in 1872 and ‘What Became of the Invaders’ 93
11 Two Georges and Two Germanies: Gissing and Meredith Commence Debate 104
12 Looking into the Abyss? 120

Part IV Punch, Judy and Deutsche Michel: Cartoons of Germany 131
13 ‘Wilhelm in Wonderland’ – Germany in the Wars of Unification 133
14 Satiated and Satisfied? Bismarckian Germany 184