Contents

Ben Dorfman
Refractions: Dissent and Memory.................................................................11

Barbara J. Falk
The History, Paradoxes, and Utility of Dissent: From State to Global Action......23

Barbara Martin
History as Dissent: Independent Historians in the Late Soviet Era and Post-Soviet Russia: From “Pamiat” to “Memorial”.......................................................51

Bent Sørensen
Dissent as Race War: The Strange Case of Amiri Baraka................................77

Hasmet M. Uluorta
The Tea Party: An Ethical All-American Performance.................................95

Stephanie Sapiie
Intellectual Identity and Student Dissent in Indonesia in the 1970s ..............117

Janina Gosseye & John Macarthur
Angry Young Architects: Counterculture and the Critique of Modernism in Brisbane, 1967–1972.................................................................141

Verita Sriratana
“But That is Perhaps Why I Can Talk of Where I Want to be Without Always Being Dragged Back to My Starting Point”: Rethinking and Re(-)Membering Czech and Slovak Histories of Violence and Dissidence through the Historical “Infranovel”..................165

Ben Dorfman
Intellectuals and Dissent: Dennis Rodman, Memory Refractor......................183

Kalle Pihlainen
Jean-Paul Sartre and the Post-1968 Ethic of Anti-Representationalism.........209

Contributors.........................................................................................................229